Join us at the 2022 LTEN Learning Executive Forum

An exclusive event for life sciences learning executives and leaders

This exclusive event gives you the opportunity to work directly with other life science training senior leaders in an interactive forum. Discuss pressing day-to-day concerns, explore ingenious solutions — and most importantly, share lessons learned.

This year's agenda is being carefully curated by the LTEN Leadership Committee, a group comprised of learning leaders who are members of the LTEN Board of Directors. This year's agenda will feature:

- Opening keynote from a thought-leader (to be announced shortly)
- Round table discussions
- Interactive workshops
- Networking reception and lunch

This event is for current senior-level L&D executives ONLY (directors and above working for a pharmaceutical, biotech or medical device or diagnostics company). Those wishing to attend this event must request an invitation. Registrations are subject to approval.

If selected as a VIP guest, LTEN will cover all costs associated with your registration (a value of $1,995) which includes a welcome reception, breakfast, lunch and refreshment breaks. Note: Hotel accommodations and travel are not included with your registration. Discounted room rate expires on January 29 and they will sell out.

You can find more details about this event and RSVP to attend by clicking here.

Space is limited. Confirm your attendance by February 1.
